CORRESPONDENCE, ANSWERS, ETC.

J. W. W., Lecturer, Marysville Grange, No. 120, Cooke county. Thanks for your offer; the paper is sent.

J. T. M., one of our traveling agents, writing from Dresden, May 11th, gives a very pleasing account of his very hospitable reception by the friends of the EXAMINER AND PATRON generally, and more especially by the Secretary of "Liberty Hill," and the Master, Mr. Mathews, of Spring Hill Grange. We make our very grateful acknowledgments. Letter concludes:

Crops look well, though wheat has suffered greatly. Splendid rain yesterday. The intelligent people are indignant at the effort of the News to drag Gov. Coke into the Down-Richardson discussion, and nearly all endorse Mr. Downs' course, and none believe that he acted either dishonestly or fraudulently. Some think he should have been more bitter. The EXAMINER comes regularly, and is the first received during the week. Frequently remarked upon the improvement in print. Will write again soon.

W. P. B., Galveston—The two copies instead of one, was a clerical mistake, rectified now.

D. & B., Gatesville—$5.50 total, correct, and paper sent.

As for the proper spelling of the word "Coryville," will you not give your authority for the assertion that it should be spelled without the "e?"

R. S. W. LaGrange—The plan proposed of forwarding names during the month, and forwarding the money for all at the end of the month "to save a little in the way of registering letters" will be satisfactory, though, mind ye, Brother, stick to the rule.

The Constitution, and also the proceedings of the State Grange will be ready for delivery in pamphlet form, in a very few days. We have not a copy of the Constitution and By-Laws of any Subordinate Grange, but will try to get one, a good one and publish it, as a form for the assistance of subordinate Granges. At the meeting of the State Grange a motion was made to do that very thing, but for some reason, probably the expense, it failed to pass. As a matter of assistance to young Granges, in making their Constitution and By-Laws, we think a good form very desirable; and we propose, if the Master or other good judge of such things will send us a copy, it shall be published in the Organ "free of charge."

R. A. B., Secretary of State Grange, writes that the business of his office is accumulating rapidly. Certainly; forward a report of organizations for publication as soon as possible. We have no back numbers containing proceedings of the State Grange, but can now send them in pamphlet form at, say $1 per dozen; also, the Constitution, with declaration of principles, by the National Grange. We remark, however, that two thousand copies of the former and five thousand of the latter have been printed by order of the Worthy Master, to be distributed among the Subordinate Granges, which, we suppose, will be done now in a few days.

D. J. M., Iredell, Bosque Co. All right. Call, and if you have our agent's receipt it will be good enough with us, but had enough for him.

R. S. Hico, Bosque Co. The transfer is made as you request, from Iredell to Hico. Glad to hear you now have a mail twice a week. Do not you people up that way owe the EXAMINER one for the improvement of your mail facilities?

T. W., Houston. Remittance $5.00, with names of subscribers, all right. Also the list of seven subscribers from Galveston. Remit by P. O. order at our expense.

A. J. D., Austin. P. O. order for $10.00, less five cents paid for the order, received and credit given in full.

A. J. R. Very much obliged, indeed, for the handsome list from Salado, and may your Grange, which has the honor of having been the first organized, prove in all things, as in this, a worthy example to her younger sisters in the State. Collections all right. Remit as your own good judgment may suggest.

Comanche. Your petition, numerously signed, for a Deputy to organize a Grange at Sweetwater Church is received, and referred to Deputy I. H. Earle, of the 19th District.

PATRON'S FESTIVAL.—The season for basket picnics has arrived. Such a pic-nicking as there will be this coming summer was never known before. Every county in every State, where Grangers abound, will have its grand barbecues or pic-nics. Such meetings as will be seen this summer will astonish those not members of the Order. When the big farm wagons turn out, filled with men and women, and rosy-cheeked sons and daughters, business is meant. There is no foolishness about it. Farmers won't leave their farms and crops, and load up and take their whole family with them—not leaving any one even to watch over the premises—unless they are intently in earnest, and know that something is wrong and must be righted. They know they are poor, that they labor hard, use economy, and not only lay up nothing for a rainy day, but have to dress in the cheapest kind of garb, and have not the means to give a respectable education to their children. They see that other classes are doing much better, dressing better, living better, educating their children better and growing rich faster, and yet not working near as hard; they think it is hardly fair, in this free country, for one class to grow rich while another can hardly keep soul and body together. They are beginning to see why this is so—that certain classes have certain privileges—that manufacturers, for instance, are authorized to tax the consumers of their goods thirty, fifty or a hundred percent more than they would otherwise have to pay for the same goods, in consequence of a high protective or prohibitory tariff, made high on purpose to keep other goods from coming into competition with the goods they produce. The farmer has to buy at whatever prices are charged, for no competition from abroad is allowed, and the poor farmer, who does not clear one per cent profit on his farm, is compelled to pay prices which give to the manufacturer twenty or thirty more per cent on his investment. But for the high tariff, which shuts out the competing article, he could buy every thing he needs now, and thus be at much less expense in living and conducting his farm, and thus lay up money every year. But now the goods he buys to clothe himself and family; the implements, tools, machines, harness, wagons, etc., he buys to carry on his farm, are all largely increased in price, and he has to pay this increased price to the protected manufacturer, who is getting rich just as the farmer is getting poor. Our laws protect the manufacturer from robbing the consumer. They protect him from foreign competition. Manufacturers' rings are organized, high prices are agreed upon, no foreign article can come in competition, and the producing classes become the slaves of the manufacturing. They must buy of them—they can't get the goods anywhere else.

But this is injustice to the farmer from only one class. Other interests are supported in the same unjust manner. The farmer is constantly fleeced for the benefit of other interests. The great producing interests are borne down by the unjust burdens imposed upon them. They have had but few friends among the lawmakers, and these have been overborne by a triumphant majority in favor of the interests of capital all the time.

The producing interests are the paramount interests of the country, and the farmers intend that hereafter they shall be so regarded. They simply say that the special privileges that have been granted to other classes shall cease; that they are just as good, but no better, than they are; and that they are no longer going to be taxed that other classes may grow rich. They are opposed to monopolies of all kinds. They don't want, and will not have, if they know it, corrupt men in office. They are heartily tired of political rings and tricksters, and believe the voice of the masses should prevail over the voice of political cliques and managers. They want cheap transportation, and here is the great valley of the Mississippi; their cry is for the improvement of the Mississippi river, so that they can save three-fourths of the freight that now goes into the insatiable maw of railroad combinations.

THE GRANGE IN KENTUCKY.—By the last number of the Southern Agriculturist of Louisville, we learn that there are one hundred and thirty Granges organized now in Kentucky. The Order is gaining ground rapidly among the enterprising farmers and graziers of the beautiful blue grass State.

Laporte county, Ind., is estimated to be the home of six hundred Patrons.
